

Since we were just commenting on the Houston SPCA No Kill claim, I thought I would share with you info about another victim of HSPCA - an older Pomeranian! I was trying to help this woman find her older Pomeranian and she just found out that her dog was euthanized over a week ago for being UNADOPTABLE because of age and pre cataract? That is ridiculous!!!

A true No Kill would not have euthanized this poor dog! Poms live well beyond that age!

----- Forwarded Message -----

From: "

To:

Sent: Mon, May 10, 2010 8:46:11 PM

Subject: Re: Missing white/blond Pomeranian

Thanks _____. I received word today that she was taken in by Houston's spca and was euthanized a little over a week today (she was really old with pre-cataracts and unadoptable). Thank you for your support.

On Mon, May 10, 2010 at 2:08 PM, _____ wrote:

Hi,

I haven't taken any Poms in for quite awhile so I would not have taken in your dog. I am so sorry! I will cc another Pom rescue group also so they can see your note too.

If you haven't placed an ad on craigslist lost and found yet, please make sure to do this as soon as possible. More people can keep watch for her that way. Please also include a picture of her in the ad. If you do not know how to place a Craigslist ad, let me know and I will set one up for you if you send me a picture of her. We can also forward to other rescues in the area if we get a pic.

I know how difficult this is, since I had one of mine stolen from my home over 6 years ago. Keep trying to find her and make sure you check all animal controls and shelters throughout the greater Houston area.

If I see any posts of a found dog matching your dog, I will let you know. Best of luck in finding her!!!

From:

To:

Sent: Mon, May 10, 2010 1:46:14 PM

Subject: Missing white/blond Pomeranian

Hi,

I lost my Pomeranian a couple weeks ago - she's 14 years old - and I lost her in Katy, TX. I was wondering if you have had any poms turned in fitting this description in late April

Best,